LIMITED TWO-PAGE PREVIEW

AI Podcast Launch Kit

Make a useful show. Build a repeatable process.

A short look at the complete kit. The full guide, production tools and bonus audio demo are in the paid kit.

October 2026 • Complete kit

Start with the listener

Before choosing an AI voice or commissioning artwork, finish one sentence: “This show helps [one listener] make [one useful decision].” A clear promise gives your first episode a job. A tool list does not.

For example, a fictional small-business show might help an owner prepare a reliable FAQ draft. The episode can explain how to gather confirmed facts, mark unanswered questions and review the final wording. It does not need to promise to automate the entire business.

Try this small exercise

Write down your listener, one question they repeatedly ask and the practical action an episode could help them take. Read that promise aloud. Narrow it until a person outside the project understands it.

Inside the full kit

Learn the process	Use the production tools
24 lessons, from idea to release and improvement	40 prompts and 35 editable templates
Six reused teaching illustrations and worked examples	10 workflows and a production tracker
PDF reading version and editable guide text	Written script examples plus one bonus audio demo

This preview shares one short idea. The full lessons, reusable prompts, templates, written scripts and approximately four-minute audio demo are in the complete kit. This two-page sample contains the teaser only.
